REVISED OLD TETAMENT.

Copies Given to the Press.

LONDON, May 15.—Copies of the revised version of the Old Testament were given to the newspapers at midnight last night. All the papers this morning contain copious extracts from the work. In the following paragraphs is presented the substance of a semi-official article prepared for the London Times, in which some account of the work of revision, with particular reference to the American part of it, is given:

Fianlly an international work of 14 years has come to a close. The revised version of the New Testament was issued in May, 1881, and now the revised Old Testament will soon be published in all parts of the English-speaking world. This revision is the most important event in the history of the English Bible since the publication of the King James translation in 1611. The success of the Old Testament may not be as great as that of the New, of which more than one million copies were sold on the day of publication, and more than three million copies before the close of the year; but it will probably be more favorably received and less severely criticized, for it involves no changes of the Hebrew text, no other manuscripts than the Masorilie having been used, and the idiom of the authorized version is most carefully preserved, out of regard for the conservative feeling of the Church in its attachment for the language of the old version. All doubts, however, have been removed and the revision will be pronounced by every competent Bible reader to be a great improvement. It represents the results of the combined labor of a large number of the best Hebrewists and Biblical scholars of England and the United States, most of them professors of Hebrew in universities and seminaries. It has moreover the advantage of the vast advance of the last fifty years on philology, Biblical geography, history and antiquities, all of which were but imperfectly understood by the forty-seven translaters of the King James, although it is freely admitted that they did the very best in their day. The new version is not a good version in the place of a bad one, but a great improvement on a good version. The movement for the present version was inauguarated by the convocation of Canterbury, the mother church of Anglo-Saxon Christendom, on May 24, 1870, by the adoption of the following resolution:

First—That it is desirable that a revision of the authorized version of the Holy Scriptures be undertaken.

Second—That the revision be so conducted as to comprise both marginal readings and such emendations as it may be found necessary to insert in the text of the authorized version.

Third—That in the above resolutions we do not contemplate any new translation of the Bible or any alternation of the language, except where, in the judgment of the most competent scholars, such change is necessary.

Fourth—That in such necessary changes the style of language employed in the existing version be closely followed.

Fifth—That it is desirable that this convocation should nominate a body of its own members to undertake the work of revision, who shall be at liberty to invite the co operation of any persons eminent for scholarship, no matter to what religious body they may belong.

Steps toward the formation of an American committee of revision were taken almost immediately after the organization of the English committee. The first meeting of the New Testament committee in England was held June 22, 1870. On the 7th July following the two houses of the Convocation voted to invite the co-operation of some American divines, and to Bishop Wilberforce and Dean Stanley was assigned soon afterwards the duty securing this result. They authorized Dr. Angus who was contemplating a visit to America, to open correspondence with Rev. Dr. Schaff and other American scholars while in the United States in regard to this work. In August, 1870, Dr. Angus sent letters to various American scholars in which he explained the plan of the English work, and suggested the formation of an American committee of 12 or 18, to which the work of the English revisors could be referred for revision and criticism. He gave some hints as to how the expenses of such a committee could be met, and invited correspondence on the subject. Dr. Angus also had personal communication with Dr. Schaff. The result was the selection of certain gentlemen, who were fitted for the work and were likely to be regarded as authorities in Biblical learning by the American public, and the publication of the names Bishop Ellicott and Dean Stanley as representing the English body.

Liberty Enlightening the World.

This new Wonder of the World, which is now being loaded on the French transport Isese for shipment to to this country, is the largest statue in the world. Some idea of its magnitude may be obtained from the fact that forty persons found standing-room within the head. A six foot man standing on the level of the lips only just reached the eyebrow. While workmen were employed on the crown of her head they seemed to be making a huge sugar-caldron, and they jumped with ease in and out the tip of the nose. Fifteen people might sit round the flame of the torch, which elevation can be reached by a spiral staircase within the outstretched arm.

The London Daily News, in speaking of it, says: "It is out and away the largest statue of modern times. The Colossus of Rhodes was nothing to it. It could carry the "Bavaria" or the "Hermann" in its arms. It towers to the skies from the yard of the Rue de Chazelles where it had been eight years in construction, and the view from its coronet sweeps clear of the six-story houses and beyond the walls of Paris."

The weight of this stupendous statue is 440,000 pounds, of which 176,000 are copper and the remainder wrought iron. It is expected to arrive in New York about the 25th of May, where it will be erected on Bedloe's Island, this being the location selected for it by Gen. W. T. Sherman, who was appointed by the President to make the selection. When placed in position it will loom up 305 feet above tide-water, the height of the statue being 151.2 feet, that of the pedestal 91 feet, and foundation 52.10 feet.

This imposing statue, higher than the enormous towers of the great Brooklyn bridge, or the steepie of Trinity Church, which is the loftiest in the city of New York,—higher, in fact, than any of the colossal statues of of antiquity,—by its rare artistic proportions, as well as by its stupendous dimensions, will add another to the wonders of the world. A word should be said of its artistic merit. The pose, stride and gesture, with its classic face, are pronounced perfect; the drapery is both massive and fine, and in some parts is as delicate and silky in effect as if wrought with a fine chisel on the smallest scale.

The conception and execution of this great work are due to the great French sculptor, M. Bartholdi who has devoted eight years of his life and most of his fortune to this great work, and whose general impulses, which must be on a scale commensurate with this noble work, prompted him to make such a gift to the United States. The committee in charge of the construction of the base and pedestal for the reception of this great work are in want of funds for its completion, and have prepared a miniature statuette, an exact counterpart of the original, six inches in height, the figure being made of bronze the pedestal of nickel silver, which they are now delivering to subscribers for the small sum of $1 each All remittances should be addressed to Richard Butler, secretary American Committee of the Statue of Liberty, No. 38 Mercer street, New York. The committee are also prepared to furnish a model, in same metals, twelve inches in height, at $5 each, delivered.

LAKE HILL.—Mr. Ralph, C. E., has completed the subdividing and marking of the corner posts of this valuable estate, and the property will soon be placed upon the market at private sale on exceptionally favorable terms; a most advantageous view of the land, together with the adjoining estates, Swan Lake and Victoria can be had from Lake Hill heights which are easy of access; prices of each plot of about five acres will be given upon application after the 30th April. Subdivision maps can be seen at our office. District maps of the location can be had on application.

Many recommend the Savoy as the best of all cabbages.

At the Holstein sale held in Chicago, March 19, 75 animals sold for $14,055, an average of $187.

J. C. Gray says common red cherry bark steeped strong is the best thing he knows of to bathe wounds in horse flesh.

Norman J. Colman, of St. Louis, has been appointed to succeed Dr. Loring as United States Commissioner of Agricultural.

The Cuthbest now stands at the head of the red raspberries, and the Gregg occupies the same position among the black cap.

A remarkable yield of honey was recently garnered by H. C. Park from his apiary, near Riverside, Cal. The yield for the season from 33 hives was 7½ tons, an average rf 412 pounds to the hive.

A farmer's wife says that three tablespoonfuls of ground Java coffee given to a cow in a mess will cure scours, and a less quantity given to a calf or pig will never fail to accomplish the desired result.

Somebody writes to a live stock paper that he met with many losses in his herd from aboration until he stabled a goat with his cattle, after which no more losses were met. He states, also, that the experience of others was the same. The reason is not stated.

William Warfield, writing to the Breeders' Gazette, says: "We find in general the better breeds of cattle confined to the cooler temperate region, while under the tropics the tendency is to run very largely to hide and horns."

P. T. Quinn says that after 25 years' experience in raising pears for market he has come to the conclusion that if he were about to plant an orchard and would get dwarf pears for nothing while at the same time he had to pay $500 a thousand for standards, he would not hesitate a moment in taking the latter.

The two leading requisites for raising large crops of carrots, are a deep well-drained soil, and clean cultivation. The drills should be as near together as will allow a narrow horse-cultivator to pass between them, and the plants should be thinned to about four inches in the rows. The treatment of field beets is similiar, except in allowing more than twice the space between the plants in the row.

SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 17TH, 1885.

THE MARTYR OF A CONSPIRACY.

What would a circus be without a clown, or a minstrel show without a Brudder Bones? Would "Hamlet," the most ghastly of all Shakesperian tragedies, be altogether successful without dear, foolish old Polonius, with his "very like a whale!" And what child would patiently endure a Christmas pantomime that was minus a Pantaloon? So with the meetings of the Victoria school board. If Mr. Fell did not occupy a seat there, what reporter could be hired except at double pay to attend the proceedings? As the Merry Andrew is to the circus or Brudder Bones is to Baird's Minstrels, so is the highly esteemed old gentleman who occupies a seat at the board through the grace and good nature of the electors of James' Bay Ward an indispensable adjunct to the monthly sittings of the school trustees. It cannot be said that his reasoning is profound or that his "facts" are often correct, but what he says never fails to excite the risibilities of his auditors and supplies, as it were, the spice for the meat and the sauce for the pudding. His characteristic harangue at the last sitting of the board has been generally commented upon as one of the old gentleman's best efforts in oratory—excelling, even, his grand strategical speech at the recent Public Defence Meeting, when he made known his plans for beating back the Russians should they land at Saanich or gain a footing at Cadboro Bay. Since the last school board meeting Mr. Fell's name has appeared but once in print, in a card published in a local evening journal. In that card he denied having dragged politics into the educational arena. It may be that Mr. Fell really believes what he asserts; but no one else can possibly think otherwise than that the effort of his latest harangue was to arraign the Government for securing the passage of the present school law. Like all other egotistical men, Mr. Fell is vain; and he is conceited enough to imagine that of all men in the province he alone is capable of dealing with the school question or understanding the kind of law that is best suited to the educational requirements of the age. He is also haunted with the extraordinary notion that every change in the law is a personal reflection upon him and a dark conspiracy on the part of the government and house to encompass his defeat at the next election. Perhaps there is no member of this community whose goings in or goings out attract so small an amount of attention from his fellow-citizens as Mr. Fell's. Indeed, if it were not for the noise he makes on street corners and at public meetings it is not unfair to presume that he would soon drop out of public notice and be forgotten altogether. At the meeting of the school board already referred to Mr. Fell complained of the difficulty he experienced in procuring registration papers. In his published card he reiterates that complaint by asserting that "one parcel only was sent" to him "after repeated applications." It is true that only one parcel was "sent" to him; but it is also true that two other parcels were handed to him by the deputy-provincial secretary—the three parcels thus obtained aggregating about four hundred. No difficulty was had in obtaining those papers; and it is also capable of proof that in addition to the four hundred copies, Mr. Fell obtained three different lots from Ferguson & Co. and five different lots from Hibben & Co. In effect, Mr. Fell has charged that there was a conspiracy on the part of the provincial secretary to prevent him getting any registration papers; but is the public not justified in entertaining the belief that Mr. Fell has himself conspired to prevent the registration of any but his own friends by scooping up all the registration papers so that his opponents would not be able to get any? To show the anxiety of the government to register all qualified voters as rapidly as possible, we are in a position to state that on March 25th, 1,000 forms for men and 500 forms for women were printed at the government office; and that on the 27th April a like number in similar proportion was printed at the same establishment. If further evidence were wanted of the falsity of Mr. Fell's charge let his ample coat-tails be consulted. They will be found "big" with registration papers, which bulge out on either side of his person and impart to his portly figure the appearance of a Chinaman waddling through the street laden with a basket at either end of a bamboo stick. We think that it has been shown that Mr. Fell's attempt to pose as a martyr in this registration business is fallacious, and that if he is not the victim of an hallucination he has at least been guilty of trifling with the truth. Some little time ago, while reading one of Clark Russell's clever sea tales, we came across a character—a queer specimen of the ancient mariner—who reminded us very forcibly of Mr. Fell and his latest pretended discovery of a government conspiracy.

Clark Russell says—I saw the old sea-dog with a telescope to his eye gazing intently seaward. As I passed him he exclaimed:

"'Lord, now to think of a wreck on such a day as this.'"

"Where's the wreck?" I asked, naturally struck by such an exclamation.

"'Why, yonder,' said he, pointing 'You'll see it plain through this here glass.'"

I looked, but saw nothing.

"Where do you say it is?" I enquired, working away with his old telescope.

"He took it from me, looked himself, and then exclaimed, 'Yes, I was afraid so. She's gone down. I 'ope there's no lives lost.'"

I laughed in his face and walked on. He chased me and said, "Won't you give me the valley of a glass of beer? Hang it all, ye've had the use of my telescope."

"'Yes,'" I replied, "to look at the wreck you saw; and when I can see it you shall have two glasses of beer."

Now; we would not charge good Mr. Fell with chasing a man for "the valley of a glass of beer;" but we do say that he has conjured up false charges of conspiracy against the government which the most powerful binocular placed to the eyes of the electors will be unable to discern. Instead of beer for the privilege of hearing his grand oration, he demands a vote. When the electors shall discover the conspiracy it is to be hoped that they will give him two votes.

THE CAPTURE OF RIEL.

The news of the capture of Riel, the leader of the Indian rebellion in the Northwest territory, will be received with satisfaction by every lover of peace and order. There was small romance and but little grit after all in the character of the bloodthirsty wretch. Deserted at the first reverse by those to whom he never was a true friend, the erstwhile leader of hundreds of "braves" was found travelling along the road attired in garments shabbier even than those of his late following, "remote, neglected, melancholy, slow,"—his temporary power vanished, fleeing from enemies that were slowly surrounding him, and a fugitive from the law, without even the approval of his own conscience—if he possesses such an article. The pity engendered by the sight of misfortune, without regard to the victim's culpability, will be wasted if extended here; while at the locality of the struggle itself the sight of the prime mover in the uprising will be rather calculated to excite to private vengeance, with a resultant speedy exit from life by Riel, though such action is to be deprecated, there being nothing brave in it, while in a measure it cheats the law of its due. As an offset to the loss of life among the Canadian militia, is the valor that opportunity has enabled them to display. The rapidity of movement shown by General Middleton in pushing his forces to the front, and his disposition to follow up an advantage gained, reflect great credit upon the ability of that officer, upon whom will probably devolve the duty of president of a drumhead court martial upon Riel. The rebel long ago forfeited all claim to life and the ending of his being should be effected by a long rope and a short shrift. He deserves to be hanged forthwith and we hope he will be; for the evil effects of his example will be felt by some among the white settlers for many a day to come, and their occasional murder by vengeful halfbreeds and Indians may yet mark the existence of the bad blood that has long been fermenting between the two races in the Northwest district.

THE WAR CLOUD AGAIN LOWERS.

Russia Rejects the English Proposals.

What Will be Done Next!

ST. PETERSBURG, May 15.—The Novoe Vremya revives the discussion of the question of an Anglo-Russian alliance, with Herat belonging to Russia.

The Novoe Vremya has a telegram from Lelav in Transcaucasia, reporting that the Georgian militia are going to the Afghan frontier.

The principal journals still advocate a coterminous frontier for England and Russia.

The Moscow Gazette says that Russia's resolute attitude has brought the British cabinet to confess its mistakes and to hasten to rectify them.

LONDON, May 15.—The Standard believes that Russia definitely declines to sanction the proposals regarding the Afghan frontier just submitted for her approval by England.

The Standard in an editorial says: "To speak plainly the draft of the Anglo-Russian agreement, which was sent to St. Petersburg for approval, is found to be wholly unacceptable to the Czar's ministers. Though not formally rejected, it has been so thoroughly condemned in detail that practically it has ceased to be an agreement. There is something vastly more serious than a hitch in the proceedings. We are back in February again, the situation being only altered to our disadvantage."

The Times' Calcutta correspondent denies that there has been any stoppage of military preparations in India. He says that all rumors to that effect are untrue.

PARIS, May 15.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Journal Des Debats says that Russia has entirely rejected the British proposals. The same dispatch also states that Russia will demand the right to have an acknowledged Russian representative at Cabul, the capital of Afghanistan. French diplomats think that this latter demand, if made, will prove more serious than any frontier question.

The Times this morning declares that men of all parties are agreed in thinking "something is wrong." In other words, that a peaceable arrangement with Russia is even now not certain. This warning by the Times probably signifies that a hint has got out of the contents of the dispatches brought here by Condee Stephen, and that they charge the Russians with aggression and with perversion of letters and telegrams of correspondents of daily papers. The especially inspired Daily News strongly asserts this.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 15.—The Official Messenger to-day publishes a report from General Komaroff to the effect that the Sariks are opposed to the new frontier line proposed by England, claiming that it is an infringement upon their rights, and gives the best land in the disputed territory to the Afghans. A council of the ministers was held, and after thoroughly discussing the subject it was decided to support the claims of the Sariks. Further negotiations between England and Russia will now be necessary, so that the claims of the Sariks may be considered before the Anglo Russian agreement can be approved by Russia.

LONDON, May 15.—In the House of Lords this afternoon Baron Carlingford, Lord President of the Council, announced that the government intended to introduce a bill embodying a large number, but not all, of the provisions of the Irish crimes act.

Gladstone stated in the commons that Russia's reply to the proposition concerning the Afghan agreement had been awaited for some days. A portion of the papers relating to the frontier question would be circulated to-morrow, but as the negotiations were incomplete, the papers would be broken at the Penjdeh incident. In regard to the report that Russia had given an intimation of a demand to have an acknowledged Russian representative at Cabul, Gladstone said he knew nothing.

Referring to the crimes act, he said, without entering into details, "that the government intended to embody various provisions into that act which they deemed to be both valuable and equitable." This statement was greeted with groans by the Parnellite members. "It would be the duty of the government," continued Gladstone, "to press the house to pass the bill into a law. Were conditions more favorable the government would be most anxious to deal with the questions of self-government in Ireland and land purchase in Ireland. Both were measures toward which the government felt they had unfulfilled their obligations. It was with great regret that the government announced their inability to ask the house to deal with those measures during the present session."

The Leading Sun Spot.

The leading sun spot of the great group now in full view on the sun's edge presented a very peculiar appearance yesterday. In the centre of the black vortex was an intensely white spot. This was connected with the penumbra by two thin white lines, like two spokes of a wheel. The inner border of the penumbra was also white, while the outer edge was a rich brown. Around the outer rim small black holes appeared, like miniature craters. This bridging process indicates that the spot is beginning to close up.—Rochester Democrat.

The Late Departure.

The route taken by the legal light whose lapsus made a departure necessary was, it is asserted, by canoe from Saanich to San Juan and thence to Tacoma. It is possible that matters will be so arranged as to permit of his return, but in view of his blasted professional career here, such a result is doubtful. Every sympathy is expressed for those who are the innocent participators of his disgrace.

The Temperance Question.

The Agricultural Hall, South Saanich, was, last Friday evening, the scene of a well-attended temperance meeting, presided over by Mr. Sluggett. Among those who spoke were Messrs. Humber, Rudge, Gray and Ellis. Large numbers took the pledge, and it is reported that more are anxious to follow the good example.

The Sunday Review.

The first number of the Sunday Review, another candidate for public patronage, was distributed around town last night. As an advertising medium for gratuitous distribution its eight neatly-printed pages of reading and business notices will doubtless find favor with those who peruse it.

Indians Told the War is Over.

(Exclusive to The Colonist.)

CLARKS CROSSING, May 16.—Riel's appearance is like a common half-breed and looks very dilapidated. He spends most of his time talking in a wandering manner and praying.

A band of Indians coming in from the west to-day to help Riel were met by the half breeds who told them the war was over. Some of the prisoners were placed on board the boat to-day. In parting from their families there were many pitiful scenes of women crying and holding up babies for the fathers to kiss.

Riel, while riding into camp, expressed himself to his captors as follows: "I do not think this trouble will die without result, as the complaints of farmers will now be regarded with some degree of attention." When told that his books and papers had been captured, he said, "I am glad; this will show I am not the leader of the rebellion. I have been encouraged by people of good standing at and about Prince Albert, who invited me over from Montana." He asked if they would give him a fair trial, civil or martial. Armstrong told him he would be tried by court martial law and Riel drew a long breath but said nothing. He spoke again of not being the head man of the rebellion and then commenced praying, and made signs of the cross. He asked whether his family would be blown up with Gatling guns and then said he did not want to be selfish and hoped none of the half-breeds would suffer.

WINNIPEG, May 16.—The general opinion here is that an attempt will be made to get Riel off on the plea of insanity. Stories have been freely floating about regarding his unsoundness of mind. There is always a chance, however, that a bullet from a volunteer's or scout's rifle will find him. The Dominion government is said to be much embarrassed by his capture.

Blue Ribbon Club.

The meeting of the Blue Ribbon Club at their hall last evening was opened by the choir singing "Bringing in the Sheaves," after which Rev. Mr. Barss offered prayer. Miss Nellie Rudge recited, "We started Life together, John." Miss Smith played an instrumental solo on the piano, after which Rev. Mr. Barss gave an interesting address speaking on the three heads, "Education, Organization and Legislation." Mr. Eli Higgins recited "The Union Jack," and in reply to an encore gave the "Charge of the Light Brigade." Mrs. Wright, of Seattle, and Mr. Miller sang a duet entitled "Matrimonial Sweets," and received an ovation when they sang "The Musical Trial." Mr. West, from New Brunswick, complimented the president on the success of the Saturday evening meetings, and described the success of the Scott Act in the east. The orchestra and band as usual gave some choice music during the evening, and a very interesting programme was concluded by the audience singing "God Save the Queen."

The Church Militant at the Royal City.

A church and the military are at logger heads at the Royal City. A short time ago the militia officers decided to have four Sunday parades of their corps, and agreed to visit the churches of each denomination represented at New Westminster every succeeding Sunday morning until the round had been made. The first church in order visited by the companies was the Holy Trinity, where Archdeacon Woods delivered an excellent and appropriate sermon. At the evening service of the Presbyterian Church, Rev. Mr. McKay delivered a sermon, in the course of which he referred to the Sunday parade of the volunteers as a desecration of the Sabbath, and said that had he been a volunteer under orders to parade on the Lord's Day he should have disobeyed. About the same time a letter appeared in a local newspaper denouncing the church parades and advising the men to disobey the orders of their officers. The sermon and the communication have caused a tremendous sensation in the otherwise staid and quiet burgh; and both minister and newspaper have been reported to the militia department at Ottawa on a charge of inciting the militia to insubordination. Another church parade will take place to-day, and the occasion is regarded with more than usual interest by the inhabitants, who intend to accompany the "bould soger boys" to church en masse.

The Kwong Lee Case.

At a quarter to twelve o'clock yesterday the jury in this suit came into court and announced their inability to arrive at a verdict. The chief justice then discharged them, remarking that the case was so plain that he was suprised and pained that they had been unable to come to a decision. The impression, his lordship said, among the Chinese would be that white juries are open to bribery.

Turning to the high sheriff the chief justice instructed that gentleman to require the attendance on Monday of Loo Chuck Fan, defendant in the case, to answer a charge of intimidating witnesses.

THE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Damaging Charges Against its Managers.

Some damaging accusations have been made during the past few days against Capt. Powers and his associate or agent, Wm. McDougall, jr., who have represented themselves as authorized to employ men to work upon the Island railway. It has been their custom to charge applicants for engagement to work on the line the sum of $2 apiece, and to hand each a printed scrap of paper with blanks duly filled in. Here is one of them: "I, the undersigned, do hereby agree to proceed to Chemainus, B. C., and to report myself immediately after arrival to Messrs. Bell, Larkin & Patterson, or their agent, and I hereby engage myself to work for the said Messrs. Bell, Larkin & Patterson at such employment as I may be found suitable for at the published schedule of wages."

Then follows the signature of the would-be employé, in this instance, J. M. Edwards. The paper is dated May 8th, 1885, and closes with the words: "Endorsed. Wm. McDougall, jr."

J. M. Edwards (above named) informs us that Capt. Powers charged him $2 for getting him the job, added, apparently in self-extenuation, that he only got 75 cents of it for himself, and directed Edwards to leave by the boat for Chemainus. This the latter did last Monday, and upon landing was told by Mr. Riley, (the managing clerk for the contractors at that point), that there were no vacancies for graders or rock workers,—capacities in which Edwards had been engaged by the labor agents. Mr. Riley then read the note, and said: "These persons will be getting themselves into trouble if they don't look out." The upshot of it was that Edwards journeyed 9½ miles, visiting the camps without success, and returning the same distance, got upon the boat and came down again to Victoria—out of pocket to the extent of $9 65 through the representations of Capt. Powers and his endorser, Wm. McDougall, junior.

This is one of many instances in which men have been sent up by the employment agency, only to find there was no work for them, and also that those who sent them did so without proper authority.

We understand that Edwards has put the matter into the hands of a lawyer, who may possibly put it into the hands of the police. This being so, it is now not only perfectly in order, but also highly expedient for an explanation to be given by the captain and his assiduous coworker, Wm. McDougall, junior.

TROUBLE FEARED.

Astoria Fishermen Strike for 60 Cents.

A Portland news correspondent at Astoria has telegraphed that there had been a strike among the fishermen engaged at the salmon canneries at that place. The fishermen had been getting 45 and 50 cents per fish and struck for an advance of 10 cents. A meeting was held at the court house at Astoria Tuesday afternoon to take action in the matter. The four canners present said that they could only speak for themselves; that as far as they were concerned they were paying all they could afford to pay, one of the number very pointedly saying, in effect, "If you want to strike, go ahead and strike; no one is going to object; the cannerymen are willing, but all that I ask is that you do not fool about it, either strike or go to work; I don't want my boats and nets lying idle and want to know just where I am." After considerable discussion, it was finally ordered that a general strike be inaugurated for higher wages. Last evening the trouble threatened to be serious, owing to threats to release some of the strikers who had been arrested.

New Westminster.

(Columbian.)

Sergt Kinsella has organized a company of young ladies for drill, and is teaching them how to walk and develop muscle. Over 30 young ladies, we believe, are attending these exercises, and it is said they show a great deal more aptitude than the men. A military organization that embraces so many young women should be resistless.

On Thursday Mr. John Tyre, of Langley, had the misfortune to get his right leg fractured below the knee while working with a stumping machine. He was cared for by his neighbors, Mr. Johnson (for whom he was working at the time), and Mr. McKee. Medical assistance was obtained from this city.

The surveyor general has arrived, but under circumstances which make it very doubtful whether his operations will be successful. It seems the surveyors are tied down to such low wages for assistants that they will not be able to employ anybody but Chinamen!

A subscriber at Langley complains of the steam ferry arrangements, and makes the following statement: "Last Sunday a messenger was sent from here (Langley) by the road to New Westminster for a doctor. The case was serious—delay might be death. At Brownsville no ferry at the time. Some one, in pity and without charge, took him over, returning with the doctor. All speed was made to and fro. The doctor returned to get some medicine, the messenger following on a fresh horse. No ferry again. Some one took the doctor over, but the messenger was delayed at Mr. Punch's all night. Crossed by first ferry on Monday morning, when payment of one dollar was demanded for the passage to and fro on Sunday! If this is your ferry law, no better plan can be adopted to drive people away from New Westminster." The circumstances stated by our correspondent are certainly such as to constitute a grievance. If the ferry by-laws give the ferryman a right to collect under such circumstances, we think the ferryman was not justified in enforcing that right.

The Results.

All persons feeling dull and depressed, or perhaps feverish, with no appetite, no energy, the system clogged, the Liver torpid, the Bowels enactive, who are wondering how to find relief, should purchase a 75 cent or $1 25 bottle of Syrup of Figs, read the circular around the bottle, follow the directions, taking a few doses of this pleasant remedy and be restored to health and happiness. It may be had of Langley & Co., wholesale agents. 11

Sir Charles Dilke and Marquis of Hartington Scandalized.

The Revised Edition of the Old Testament.

LONDON, May 16.—The quarrel in the cabinet over the advisability of renewing the Irish crimes act came to a head this evening. A minority of the ministers, headed by Chamberlain, president of the board of trade, voted for the enactment of the act. This minority was finally overborne, and the government have decided to prepare a renewal for two years of the act in a modified form. Parnellites are indignant at the government for this decision. They have privately warned the ministers that any attempt to renew the act, even in a mitigated form, will be the throwing of the home rule vote in the English constituencies with the opposition. Ministerial arrangements have been made to bring the present parliamentary session to a close by the middle of July at the farthest, but in all likelihood this intention will be thwarted by the determination of Parnell's followers to resist the passage of the renewal bill. Parnell is a master of parliamentary tactics, and if the

to his party there can be no doubt that he will so obstruct its passage as to prolong the session uncomfortably. He may be able to extend the session several weeks and then tire out the government. Gladstone's promises to give Ireland certain schemes for the extension of local self-government and to facilitate land purchases in Ireland have failed to soften the Irish opposition to the policy. Concerning the Irish crimes act, they will accept nothing short of an abandonment of the whole act.

The approach of the general election campaign is bringing forward unexpected political strength among British workmen. They are concentrating everywhere upon

LABOR CANDIDATES FOR PARLIAMENTARY SEATS.

This is noticeable particularly in many of the larger boroughs, such for instance as Glasgow, Newcastle and other centres of manufacturing industries. Workingmen in these places are engaged in raising subscriptions for the purpose of sending workmen to parliament. There can hardly be a doubt that the reason there are at present so few representatives of poor men in parliament to-day is the fact that no man with a secured livelihood can afford to accept an unsalaried parliamentary seat and few labor constituencies can afford to pay salaries by subscriptions. If members were to day salaried like American congressmen the house of commons would soon be revolutionized in its character. Joseph Arch, the agricultural laborers' candidate, has consented to contest the constituency of West Norfolk and is supported by the liberal leaders. There is a movement organized in the Parnell lines to raise a number of workmen to

ATTACKS ON THE CHARACTER OF GLADSTONE,

Sir Charles Dilke, colonial secretary, and the Marquis of Hartington, secretary of war, made in letters sent to the Paris Nouvelle Revue by Count Paul Vasali. Advance sheets of the letters have been supplied to a number of English papers. The Count's letters give a number of scandals against the three gentlemen named. Some of these scandals are old, but many of them are new. It will, perhaps, be news to most American readers that Gladstone is vulnerable to gossip, especially to gossip concerning women; but Count Vasali refers circumstantially to the premier as having been engaged in a not very creditable intrigue with a lovely woman described as "Laura B," who is known to many, and who is described in the Count's letter as a woman who has contracted some very respectable debts in Paris society—"the only thing about her," says Vasali, "which can be called respectable." The Count in the part of his literature in which he associates the name of the British premier with that of "Laura B." declares the beauty named had on one occasion sent her portrait to the old admirer, and Mrs. Gladstone, who jealously watches over the whims and fancies of her husband, sent the portrait back. Concerning the same subject Count Paul Vasali says, among other things, "I cannot tell you whether the relations of the 'grand old man' with Mrs. Langtry have ever really stepped beyond the bounds of a certain sentimentalism; but I can tell you that he has not ceased to pay his court to women. He has a passion for billet doux, and even from his seat in parliament he sends notes to one of his beautiful assistants, which are handed by discreet messengers under the eyes of Mrs. Gladstone, and are suppressed. Commenting upon rumors about Gladstone's alleged relations with Madame Novidoff, the editor of Nouvelle Revue, which is publishing Count Vasali's letters, declares, as a friend of this lady, that the reports are false. He adds, however, that he cannot affirm that a woman of such intelligence as that possessed by Mme. Novidoff is not flattered by the sentiments which she inspires in Gladstone; but he denies she has ever responded with even a shadow of flirtation. Count Vasali refers to Lord Hartington's alleged long connection with a celebrated duchess. The count says the marquis does not attempt to please any other women. "She governs him entirely," the count says, "and is discreet enough to respect the proprieties of society, which, thankful for this concession, closes its eyes. Equally unscrupulous is Vasali's reference to Sir Charles Dilke: "An advocate for cremation," the count says, "he had his young wife cremated and another woman alive makes him glow with a gentle flame. Fair, intelligent and distinguished, the friend of Sir Charles is not as grand a lady as the friend of the Marquis of Hartington; but she still takes him away from the vulgar. Being married she will break the ties which enchain to share of the life which she has conquered." 'Tis rumored that steps will be taken to suppress the publication of Vasali's letters in English papers. The British government to-day issued diplomatic papers which state that Her Majesty's government will be compelled to regard toward Herat. On the other hand it is announced that Russia has spontaneously disclaimed any menacing intention with regard to Herat. The British government is therefore favorably inclined to consider that the question at issue between England and Russia has reached a settlement satisfactory to both countries. The documents submitted to parliament to-day cover the Anglo-Russian dispute up to the time of the Penjdeh incident and aggression on the part of the Russian government upon the Ameer's territory of which Herat is the salient point. From St. Petersburg comes the news that the Russian government has decided upon Russianizing the German provinces along the Baltic. To accomplish this the Czar has issued a ukaze that hereafter the Russian language shall be taught in all schools in those provinces and shall entirely replace the German language in these schools wherein heretofore the German has been taught. A similar edict has been issued in the Warsaw official journal. This edict makes the only elementary language to be taught throughout Russian Poland. It is announced that as soon as the Anglo-Russian difficulty is settled the Czarina will visit the Princess of Wales in London.

AS A HOSTILE ACT ANY MOVEMENT BY RUSSIA

THE REVISED EDITION.

The rush for authentic copies of the revised old testament is unprecedented in England. The Pall Mall Gazette states this evening that a London correspondent of certain New York papers offered £500 for simply an advance copy of the revised copy of the old testament. At one University publishing house the officers having the printing in charge were obdurate in refusing the correspondent's request. The correspondent of the Gazette says he was authorized by his paper to spend $2,500 in telegraphing the main features of the new edition. The first orders for the new issue of the revision amounted to over 100,000.

CAPTURE OF RIEL.

He Exhibits a Craven Spirit.

The Rebellion Believed to be Over.

ST. PAUL, May 16.—Many rebels are giving up arms, and the rebellion has ended. Diel, Thome and Armstrong, three scouts, captured Riel at noon. He was on the road, three miles from Batouche, and was in company with three young men, all of whom were armed. He appeared unconcerned. Diel said to him: "I am surprised to see you here." Riel said: "I was coming to give myself up." He said his wife and family were across the river. While talking to him Boulton's scouts were seen coming up, and Riel, becoming afraid of being shot, begged his captors to take him into camp themselves.

Gen Middleton gave orders that the men should keep in their tents when Riel comes in, as he is afraid some personal enemy of Riel will shoot him. Many have sworn to shoot him at sight.

ST. PAUL, May 16—4:30 p. m.—Riel was brought in at 3:30 this afternoon. No demonstration was made. He walked quietly to the general's tent. Riel said he stayed on Tuesday and Wednesday nights on the bluffs one and a half miles north of Batouche. He wished for his trial, and asked Armstrong if he would get civil or military trial. He said his wife and family were with the half-breed women near by. Riel appears careworn and haggard. He has let his hair grow long, and dressed in poorer fashion than most of the half-breeds captured. While talking to General Middleton, as well as could be seen from outside the tent, his eyes rolled from side to side with the look of a haunted man. He evidently was the most frightened man in the camp, and in constant fear of violence at the hands of the soldiers. There is no danger of any such violence. *

OTTAWA, May 16.—In the House of Commons this afternoon the Minister of Militia read a report of the battle of Batouche, received from General Middleton, which thus closes: "I cannot, of course, be certain, but I am inclined to think that the complete smash up of the rebels has pretty well broken the back of the rebellion; at any rate it will, I trust, have dispelled the idea that half-breeds can withstand an attack of resolute whites, properly led, and will tend to remove the unaccountable scare that seems to have entered into the minds of so many at the Northwest as regards the prowess and power to fight of Indians and half-breeds. There is not a sign of the enemy on either side of the river for miles."

THE TELEPHONE.

DIFFICULTIES WHICH SURROUND LONG-DISTANCE COMMUNICATION.

Absolutely Perfect Condition of the Elements Required—The Telegraph More Reliable and Less Troublesome—Liability to Error.

[Cor. Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.]

Granting that a long-distance telephone will be forthcoming, it will require an absolutely perfect condition of the elements along the route over which the wire runs; there must be no rain, no fog, no sleet, nor mist; no moisture in the atmosphere, no electrical storms, and, besides, there must be invented a more perfect system of insulation of the wires where they come in contact with the poles than is used or known at the present time. A means must also be devised to entirely overcome induction (the influence exerted by the current on one wire over another running parallel with and in close proximity), or, in other words, overcome itself, for wherever you have a current you have also induction, or an induced current.

After all these difficulties have been overcome there still remain many reasons why it will not be a success.

If an inferior means of communication attempts to supplant a superior one, what must be the result?

For long distances the telegraph is as much superior to the telephone as the "limited" express trains are superior to a canalboat—not for a single isolated case, but for the volume of business that is daily sent over the telegraph wires.

A telephone wire between Cincinnati and New York would be capable of accommodating not to exceed six customers per hour, allowing ten minutes to each, including the time necessary for calling the exchange here and for the exchange to call New York, and for that exchange to ring up the party with whom the Cincinnati customer desires communication.

At this rate—a very liberal allowance—only six communications per hour would be possible, or seventy odd for every twelve hours. The great bulk of communications between these cities is of a commercial nature and generally of much importance, nearly all of them requiring transmission between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. (nine hours). This would necessitate one wire for every six persons using the telephone per hour during that time. For the accommodation of the Cincinnati customers alone there would have to be no less than ten direct wires, and then the anxious customers would have to almost constantly face the usual cry of "Wire in use; call again."

Now, taking into consideration all the cities west and south of this place which would look to Cincinnati for their eastern communications, the number of wires would reach well up into the hundreds. At Pittsburg (over the middle route), at Cleveland (over the northern route), the number would be more than doubled; and this, to for wires actually needed to supply the western demand for connection with New York city; not taking into consideration the great demand that would arise for wires to all the other important eastern cities, such, for instance, as Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, etc. It would require the duplication of the present number of telegraph wires throughout the United States and Canada ten times over.

No sir the telephone will never become a competitor of the telegraph for the transmission of the telegraph is quicker, more reliable, less troublesome to the customer, and, besides, it is, or should be, responsible for all errors.

The coming long-distance telephone will be a plaything, nothing more. Put a mark on the assertion.

DISINFECTANTS AND DELUSIONS.

Little Value of Various Articles Used to Destroy Disease Germs.

[Baltimore Sun.]

A close study by eminent investigators of micro-organisms, and the effect upon them of various alleged disinfectants would seem to show that some delusions prevail in regard to the value of articles used to destroy the germs of disease. Among the rest carbolic acid, according to authorities quoted by The Medical Record, "is fast losing its once great reputation." A 1 per cent. solution of carbolic acid in water has no influence on anthrax spores, microscopic organisms found in sheep, not even delaying their growth. "Even after soaking for twenty-four hours in a 10 per cent. solution of carbolic acid, anthrax spores inoculated into a guinea pig killed it in two days." A 25 per cent. solution of carbolic acid in alcohol was not fatal to these diseased germs. "The sulphates of iron, copper and zinc, reputed disinfectants, in no case exercised any destructive influence on the life of anthrax spores.

Dr. Koch has a very poor opinion of chloride of zinc as a disinfectant, and as a germicide Dr. Blythe thinks it inefficient. According to Dr. Sternberg, who has collected nearly all the published information to be had regarding germicides, and has added much by his own special investigations, "sulphate of iron, or copperas, even in saturated solution, does not kill any germs or spores. To use this agent as a disinfectant would evidently be a serious error. It and carbolic acid have failed again and again to prevent the spread of yellow and typhoid fevers, cholera, filth, dysentery, etc. They are still largely used for privy vault disinfection, the smells of which they cover up for a few days, but the germs in which they do not destroy." Muriated tincture of iron, so much used in the treatment of diptheria, is inert, even in a 4 per cent solution, for the destruction of bacteria.

Sulphate of copper, or bluestone, is vastly more useful than copperas, which is so largely depended upon by health officers. It is efficient in very weak solutions in destroying the virulence of septicemic blood, and ranks high among metallic salts that have been used for purposes of disinfection. Ammonia does not destroy virus or germs or spores, and all its salts are useless as germicides. But after all is said against the various disinfectants mentioned, it is well to remember that opinions vary, and isolated experiments are not always to be accepted as conclusive, even from such distinguished investigators as have been named.

Serious Trouble Ahead.

[Detroit Free Press.]

"I tell you," said one man with a great deal of extra heat, "he is a man who will take any advantage of you! I wouldn't trust him to carry a pint of molasses half a block for me."

"And the most disagreeable person I ever met," added a second. "If I had his personal ways I should pray to be hit with a sand-club and shoved under the ice!"

"Oh, he'll go down, and dont' you forget it!" put in the third. "I've heard hints already of his being financially embarrassed, and I expect to live to see the day when he'll saw wood for me at 50 cents per cord!"

The fourth and fifth men walked away together, and the fourth whispered:

"Too bad—too bad. I ought to have known how it would operate."

"Why, what has the man done?" asked the other.

"Done! Why, he's gone and bought a pacing horse which can clean 'em all out! D'ye suppose a man who is beaten on the show is ever going to forgive the party who does it!"
